Installation Handbooks & Site Plans

'Fail to plan, plan to fail'

We recognise that elite events rely on planning, and that great plans are best achieved with as much information as possible. So...

Installation Handbooks:

To assist with this from outset, each of our venues has its own installation handbook that aims to provide a wealth of site detail. From vehicle access to entertainment, alcohol to sampling, working hours, building advice and more; each handbook's purpose is to provide a mini 'site bible' of must-have information.

Site Plans:

Alongside the installation handbooks are individual site plans so that installs can be mapped out in advance and footprint requirements insured. Venue plans are also available as DWGs on request.

Venue Supervisors and RAMS:

Possessing a wealth of site knowledge, our Venue Supervisors not only provide on-site guidance on the day but also act as a dedicated liaison for logistical and technical queries during the planning process to ensure that submitted RAMS can be signed off.

All activities across the venues are required to have a Venue Supervisor – please refer to rates page for more information.

Production and Equipment:

The foundation of an expert event is health and safety which in turn relies on the correct production and materials.

Please refer to the installation handbooks for signposting on our venues and note that all client events are welcome to source and supply their own certified equipment.

Those requiring any support with equipment hire can also speak to Create Productions who offer a door-to-door delivery and collection service of approved equipment from fencing to DDA low

The venue supervisors are friendly and helpful. The arrival on site and installation is always stress-free and the supervisors are on hand in case there are any problems.

ZSL

We found the installation guide very useful when planning our event, it has all the information you need to plan logistics and understand the particular features of the space.

Boulebar

The venue supervisors fully understand the logistics involved in setting up a site for a bespoke activity. They just get it. They are flexible and accommodating and do all they can to help to facilitate an easy experience and make an event a success.

Ministry of Fun

The venue supervisors are great – we always feel reassured we are in safe hands.
